They may be big and strong - but even playbuses occasionally need a little 'tender loving care'!

We guess that yours will have been in daily use and suffered the challenge of hundreds of small but busy hands and feet. Here are some ideas from our latest project, the Buffy Bus, which might give you some ideas for developing and improving your own playbus.

"Many, many thanks to Coachbuild Quality for all your hard work, wisdom and dedication, which enabled the bus to be ready on time. It looks fantastic and we have had lots of favourable comments. I am sure that we will see you again in the future and would have no hesitation in recommending your excellent skills to other similar groups."

Rosie Juhl - Playbus Coordinator.

Some Ideas

If you have a double decker bus, why not utilise that space above the stairwell to house a computer. It's a great way to occupy bright and active minds and keep them quiet for long periods! It can also be used to exercise adults computer skills.

Activity Space

Soft play and ball pit areas. These provide hours of safe play for younger children, but you will have to explain to them why they can't have one in their own bedroom!

Sand and water trays are always a great hit with the children. Having two trays, in it's own unit, with storage underneath, makes the mess a little bit easier to cope with!
